

Hansen's Story of the Great Bribery Plot--Part III.

Q.—Mr. Wolfe, I think, says no money passed between you and him? A.—No.

Q.—When did you learn you were suspected of being connected with the Burns agency? A.—That Saturday night, it being passed with him in Charley Lenz's place. That would be the 11th, I think.

Q.—You denied that, of course? A.—Why, I tried to talk them out of it, of course, and I think I succeeded pretty well.

Q.—For a short time only? A.—For a short time only. (Laughter).

Q.—Well, now, Mr. Hansen, seriously, had you any thought of conspiring with anybody to commit a crime or conspiring at bribery or attempted bribery? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Or were you just carrying out instructions as a detective? A.—That is all; carrying out instructions as a detective; that is all.

Q.—Cross-examination by Mr. Magney: Q.—You were employed to come here to see whether any city officials or county officials would fall into a trap that you might set for them, is that it? A.—No; I was asked to come here and bid for a contract and interview Mr. Wolfe and Mr. Grace, which was marked on that at the time.

Q.—But that was not your real business, was it? A.—Well, to see if they would ask for money if that contract was awarded me.

Q.—In other words, what your employer wanted was whether these men—? A.—Are honest; that is all.

Q.—And would stand a bribe or not, if offered? A.—If the would ask for a bribe or not, would be more correct.

Q.—Your operations were to be confined to the city hall exclusively, were they? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—There were county officials, however, on the list of men furnished you? A.—They are all there, yes.

Q.—You were instructed, however, to confine your operations to the city officials? A.—Confine to the city hall, hearing plant, yes.

Q.—How frequently did you see Mr. Polcar and Mr. Bromé? A.—I saw Mr.

Coming! Coming! Coming!

The Bee takes this occasion to announce that some of the daily reports made by the Burns' sleuths while here on the bribery plot job giving details of their doings have come into our possession.

Wait for them! Watch for them!

Polcar once in Chicago and I saw Mr. Bromé twice in Chicago; and no other time or no other place have I ever seen them before or since.

Q.—You did not see either of them in Omaha? A.—No, sir.

Mr. Burres: Pardon me for interrupting you. They knew you were in Omaha and stopping at the hotel, didn't they? A.—Why, certainly.

By Mr. Magney: Q.—The first time you were called back to Chicago, you were at that conference? A.—The first time I was called back, why, this Mr. Bromé.

Q.—Who else? A.—Mr. Raymond Burns, and myself, and Mr. Bourgeois.

Q.—Who is Bourgeois? A.—He is general manager of the western district of the Burns agency.

Q.—What instructions were given you at that time that you talked with Mr. Bromé and Mr. Burns? A.—Simply to await orders. That is all at that time.

Q.—Were there any suggestions made as to how to proceed? A.—Why, I was asked to send a telegram to Mr. Wolfe so as to get him to tie him up on the proposition he made me, and I sent a telegram, and as near as I can remember it, word for word, it was that the proposition that he made me was agreeable to the firm and for him to write me and to acknowledge receipt of the telegram, and his letter to me I received on Monday, which I think was the 9th day of March; the 8th or 9th of March; I do not remember exactly.

Q.—That telegram to Mr. Wolfe was sent as the result of the suggestions made at this meeting? A.—In Wroth's? Q.—At which Mr. Bromé, from Omaha, was present? A.—Mr. Bromé was present at the time, yes.

Q.—Mr. Polcar wasn't there at that time? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Now, how long after this was it that you went back to Chicago again? A.—Why, I met Mr. Polcar there, and Mr. Bromé, on the 11th day of April.

Q.—Who called you back there? A.—The manager of the Kansas City district ordered me to report to Chicago for conference, by telegram.

Q.—Now, who were present at that conference? A.—Mr. W. J. Burns, R. J. Burns, Mr. Polcar, Mr. Bromé, Mr. Gustafson, Mr. Bourgeois and myself.

Q.—Did you report to them then the result of your operations up to that time? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—What instructions were given at that conference? A.—To go back to Omaha and see if I could not find out if he was getting that money who he was going to split the money with; they considered that there was somebody higher in official position in the city that would have their share out of it; that was my instructions when I left there.

Q.—Mr. Bromé and Mr. Polcar were both at that conference? A.—Yes, both at that meeting.

Q.—What did they have to say about that? A.—Why, when the question of the $500 came up, why, Mr. Polcar said, give it to him, and Mr. Burns would not stand for it; he says, no; there is no need of that; that is money wasted.

Q.—Why did he consider it money wasted? A.—Because they did not consider that Mr. Wolfe was in a position to give me the contract.

Q.—You say you had been reporting to Chicago each day? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—In what form did you send your reports; that is, did you send more than one or did you send it in duplicate? A.—I only sent one; that is all.

Q.—One report to the Burns agency? A.—Yes, I sent it to Raymond J. Burns, worked personal, 600 Transportation building, Chicago.

Q.—Did you report every day? A.—If I did not have a chance to report every day I would let it go over for a day or so, you know, at times.

Q.—How many of the city officials did you call on or meet, while you were here? A.—I met Mr. Withnell; I met the mayor; I met Mr. Wolfe; and he introduced me, at his office, to Mr. Grace, and another gentleman whose name I cannot recall; that is all the officials that I met in Chicago that I know of.

Q.—In Omaha, you mean? A.—In Omaha, I should say; beg your pardon. Oh, yes, I met a Mr. Bridges; he introduced me to Mr. Bridges one day.

Q.—Do you know who prepared this list of names? A.—Only what Mr. Gustafson told me; it was a list given to him by the editor of the News at Omaha; that is all I know.

By Mr. Burres: Q.—While you report to the home agency at Chicago, you have no means of knowing whether your reports are copied or not? A.—I have no means of knowing.

Q.—You do not know whether they were sent to Kansas City even, or any part of them? A.—I do not know anything about that.

By Justice Britt: Q.—Were you in Omaha on April 19th? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you meet Mr. Wolfe on that day at Lenz's place? A.—I met him in Lenz's place; I have no doubt about that; I presume I did; I cannot recall; I have been at many places with him.

By Mr. Burres: Q.—Do you recall a conversation on that day at that place? A.—We had no conversation excepting I asked him what he was going to have to drink.

Q.—That is not much of a conversation? A.—That is the only conversation we ever had in Lenz's place; what he would have to drink; that is all.

Q.—Out in front of there or in front of the store near by? A.—No, sir; never had any such conversation with him.

Q.—Mr. Wolfe said you were talking rather loud and he did not want to talk business affairs in a public place and you and he went outside? A.—No, sir; I never had any such conversation with Mr. Wolfe that he stated.

Q.—About the $500? A.—I never did.

Q.—Just tell us about that? A.—I cannot tell an untruth, I never had a conversation like that with Mr. Wolfe.

Excused.

Mr. Hansen recalled and examined by Mr. Burres: Q.—Do you know whose handwriting this is? Note: Referring to the list of names beginning with Tom Dennison and ending with Mayor Dahlman.

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Whose writing? A.—Mr. Gustafson, the manager.

Q.—Written in his office? A.—Written at the Federal hotel in Kansas City.

Q.—The name Withnell? A.—By Gustafson.

Q.—And Mayor Dahlman was written by Gustafson? A.—Yes, sir.

Witness excused.

MISSOURI CROPS GOOD SAYS RAILROAD OFFICIAL

C. R. Berry, St. Joseph, Mo., assistant to Vice President Blabon of the Great Western, is in the city looking after business matters. He asserts that the equipment of the Great Western is in good shape for handling the grain crop and that up to this time there is nothing to indicate a shortage of cars.

In portions of the northwest section of Missouri, says Mr. Berry, it is pretty dry and rain is needed to mature the corn crop, but on the whole the state was never in better condition.

HAYDEN'S

NO CAUSE FOR ANY ALARM

While Rain Would Be Acceptable, Corn Not in Immediate Danger.

GENERAL CONDITION IS GOOD

Crops Suffering in Some Places, but as a Whole Railroads Give Out Encouraging Reports Along Lines.

While the weather continues hot and dry in the Missouri river valley, according to the weekly crop and soil reports to the railroads there is no cause for immediate alarm over the prospects of corn in Nebraska being damaged by drought.

Last week, for instance, over the Burlington system, according to the reports given out from headquarters and coming from all stations on the Nebraska lines, there was a fair amount of precipitation. It was light on the Omaha division, this including the river lines.

On the Lincoln division the precipitation during last week ranged from one-fourth to nearly two inches; on the Wymore division, from one-fourth to 1 1/2 inches; and on the McCook division, from one-half to 2 1/2 inches, the heaviest precipitation being along the Republican river valley and over the country in the vicinity of McCook.

Relative to the soil condition the Burlington's report says:

"The top soil is dry on practically the entire Omaha division, and rain would be acceptable. The same condition prevails over that part of the Lincoln division east of York on the Lincoln-Ravenna line and on the main line between Hastings and Lincoln. There are places on the Wymore division where rain would be acceptable, but quite generally the soil is in a satisfactory condition. There are no complaints as to conditions on the McCook division."

Condition of Corn Good.

Figuring on the basis of the ten-year average the condition of corn on the several divisions of the system is placed as follows:

Omaha, Lincoln and Wymore, 100 per cent; McCook, 90 per cent.

The potato crop, according to the report, promises a fair yield, and the pastures are still very good, though in some localities they are beginning to show the need of rain.

Corn Needs Rain.

The report of the Northwestern, covering the northeast portion of the state, where crops have been good for more than forty consecutive years, indicates that corn is in need of rain and that in some localities is beginning to suffer. This report is made by the agents of the various stations and summarized is as follows:

Washington—Oats and wheat averaging twenty-eight bushels. Corn needs rain badly, although still in good shape.

Wahoo—Wheat running seventeen to thirty bushels. Oats, fifty to as high as seventy-five. Corn needs good rain to insure enormous crop, not suffering as yet.

Ceresco—Wheat running twenty to twenty-five bushels. Corn doing fine, but needs rain soon.

Octavia—Corn will need rain badly soon; if no rain will be cut back some.

David City—Wheat ten to twenty bushels, good quality. Corn shows signs of some damage on account of drought.

Houston—Wheat thirty bushels. Oats fifty to seventy-five bushels. Corn needs rain badly very soon or will be damaged.

Henderson—No damage to corn, but need rain. Oats running forty to forty-five bushels. Third crop of alfalfa.

Harvard—Corn beginning to show drought; can't stand much more without rain.

Bruno—Corn holding out splendidly. Wheat and oats about 25 per cent threshed.

Goehner—Two light showers, but not heavy enough to do any good. Wheat averaging twenty bushels. Corn very heavy. Light oats crop on account of rust damage. Corn will be enormous crop if rain falls.

Exeter—Corn doing very well, looks fine for big crop. Good rain needed. Third cutting of alfalfa.

Shickley—Corn doing fine. Third cutting of alfalfa.

Korn—Wheat twenty-three to fifty-five bushels. Oats fair. Just starting to thresh. Corn good, but more rain needed. Wheat ten bushels. Oats, thirty-five bushels average.

Lodge—Had nice rain, but more needed. Oats going thirty to thirty-two bushels. Prairie hay all cut.

Humphrey—Had over an inch of rain, getting corn out of danger. Oats being cut green to save from rust. This being caused by rust. Wheat running twenty bushels. Early oats threshed, average twenty-five bushels.

Winer—Had nice rain during week. Small grain all cut but not threshed as yet. Corn needs rain but not damaged as yet.

O'Neill—Corn needs rain badly, some damage done, but not as much as the other places. No rain; hay crop cut 25 per cent by hot winds.

Pearce—Had a good rain. Corn does very

LAST YEAR'S RECORD FOR COLLECTION OF BACK TAXES BEATEN

In the collection of back taxes, the county and city treasurer's office has already made 1914 a record year, the collections being more than $2,000 greater than the former highest total which was reached in 1913.

In the total collection of city taxes this year Treasurer Eric is approximately $15,000 behind the record at the same date of 1913.

On July 25, 1914, $1,588,899 taxes on city property had been paid into the treasury while on the corresponding date last year, $1,388,914 taxes had been collected. During 1913 the former high record for the collection of back taxes was made when the aggregate totaled $61,574. The new high record was attained this year when back taxes amounting to $61,581 were collected.

BRIDE ASKS CHANGE IN RECORD OF AGE

A bride of but two days, Mrs. John H. Coleman, formerly Jennie Augusta Lange, left her home at 906 South Twentieth street to investigate in the office of the clerk of the county court the details of the ceremony which made her a wife.

"The record 'obey' used in your ceremony here?" she demanded of Judge Bryce Crawford.

"No, indeed," replied the judge. "It doesn't do any good to put that in. The women won't obey, anyway."

The bride was relieved, but she had still another matter to straighten out.

In the excitement of getting a license she had inadvertently given her age as 24. That was a mistake, a huge five-year mistake, she informed the clerk at the marriage license desk, and she didn't want the record of the court to contain any such falsehood.

The clerk was obliging and erased the offending 24, and, with a fine pen, carefully rectified the error, recording the bride's age as 41.

O. C. CARSON'S ACCIDENT POLICY COMES IN HANDY

Only last week O. C. Carson, a farmer, took out an accident insurance policy "to get rid of a peaky solicitor." This morning at the police station surgeons patched up injuries which will enable him to collect a considerable sum from the company represented by the "peaky agent."

Carson was driving his team south on Fifteenth street, when at Dodge an auto driven by Mrs. Helen Lagett, wife of the proprietor of a South Omaha cleaning and dyeing establishment, struck his wagon, causing a runaway. The farmer was thrown out and dragged a dozen feet before the horses were stopped. Mrs. Lagett was placed under arrest and released on a $500 bond, pending the outcome of Carson's hurts.

CORN MARKET STRONG WITH HEAVY RECEIPTS

Monday was a busy day on the Grain exchange, 20 cars of wheat, 12 of corn and eighty-two of oats being offered for sale. Prices were up a cent or better from last Saturday's close and generally the stuff was taken as offered.

Omaha was behind Chicago and Kansas City on wheat receipts, but far ahead on corn. Several millers from the east were about the exchange room, picking up wheat for shipment and a large quantity of the corn went out to fill orders taken some weeks ago.

COUNCIL SETS ASIDE CASH FOR AK-SAR-BEN LIGHTING

The City Commissioners met at the City hall last afternoon recommending that the usual $2,000 be contributed by the city for lighting the streets during the Ak-Sar-Ben festivities in the fall, they also recommended to the board.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Serious Trouble Brewing in the Camp of the Local Democrats.

RANK AND FILE NOT SATISFIED

Claim Made That Selection of Delegates to Columbus Convention Was a Cut and Dried Plan.

Mayor Hector won the eternal gratitude of the South Omaha Office Holders' union when he chose the delegation that is to go to Columbus Tuesday. With a few exceptions, where the uptown leaders forced in a few names, the delegation is composed of office holders, would-be office holders or has been. The rank and file of the democrats in South Omaha yesterday were uttering frantic shrieks of protest over the done Mayor Hector and his gang poured down their throats Saturday night at the county democratic convention. It was not a question of Wilson and Bryan men, nor a question of Hitchcock that seemed to dictate the choice of the hand-picked crew. It was just a plain out and out raid by the gang that has ridden in the democratic saddle in South Omaha for years.

It seems that no one in South Omaha was consulted about the names of the delegates to the state convention except Hector, with a possible exception of Hector's park board president, Fred Heflinger. That is, no one else was consulted until a big uptown democrat got sore on the names and telephoned down to find out why the names of certain other democrats had been left off the list.

"Did you men know that there was to be a convention at Columbus?" asked the uptown friend.

"Of course," said the South Omaha rank and file, "but we don't get a chance to name delegates; that's done by the gang."

"Well, here's where the gang gets a lesson," said the uptown friend.

Some Changes.

"Give me the names of a few democrats down there who ought to go outside of the ring," telephoned the uptown friend.

The names were given and hence it was that when the roll was called Saturday night the ring heard a few names that are really flies in the ointment. For instance, the name of Jerry Fenton, one of the best known and most highly respected democrats in the Magic City, was to be left off the list of delegates to the state convention.

The names of J. C. Walker and John Maxwell were concessions to the younger democracy of the town, as was that of Fenton, who stands for the conservative element. Practically all the rest are office holders or has been. A few inheritances wisbed on Magic City democrats by the uptown Dahlman democracy were also included in the list. As far as the central committee goes, Fred Moore is a former Omaha and Dahlmanite, it is said.

Around town yesterday the Wilson democrats and the younger democrats sharpened their cutlery. "It's the same old stuff," said one democrat. "Bulls and Tanners and Hector and the rest; never any change."

It is said that Hector is trying to make a place on the state committee this time. Last convention he was trimmed by Gillin, whose name does not appear among the delegates this year.

Death of Thomas Brostrom.

Thomas Brostrom, aged 83 years, died Sunday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mary Lawler, 319 T Street. The funeral will be held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Mary's church, with interment in St. Mary's cemetery. The deceased is survived by four daughters, Mrs. M. E. Lawler, Mrs. Mary Lawler, Mrs. F. J. Conner and Mrs. John Lucid and John Brostrom, all of South Omaha.

Struck by an Esquaw.

Joe Chirning, 69 years old, was struck by a Rock Island engine at Albright Saturday forenoon and sustained a concussion of the brain. Chirning lives at Twenty-fifth and N streets. It is not known just how the accident occurred. Dr. E. E. Schindler was called and after attending the injured man, sent him to the South Omaha hospital. It was said yesterday that his condition was hopeful.

Glad Clark Steps In.

Chief of Police Briggs, candidate for sheriff, is ready over a report circulated concerning his activities to get the street railway company to withdraw the name of Mike Clark from the list. Briggs says that story is false. "I never sought to get Clark off the ticket, nor did I have anything to do with the mak-

HIDES MOTORCYCLE, REPORTS IT STOLEN TO SCARE ANOTHER

"That's what I call carrying a joke too far," declared Chief of Detectives Maloney, as he ordered Claude Mowrey, a Woodman of the World clerk, living at 46 North Fortieth, held in jail for "stealing" his own motorcycle.

Mowrey reported to the police Saturday that his motorcycle had been stolen from him. He accused a young medical student named H. B. Stapleton. Detectives Ring and Van Deusen investigated and found Stapleton innocent. They went to the Industrial garage where Mowrey usually keeps his machine and were told that he had hidden it himself in the cellar just before complaining to the police.

In jail he told the officers that Stapleton had hidden the machine without his consent and he just wanted to play a joke on him to teach him a lesson.

ACCUSE WATER BOARD OF BREAKING CONTRACT

Alleging that the Omaha Water board had failed to keep a contract made during the time the suit against the old Omaha Water company was pending in the courts, the McCague Investment company has brought suit in district court to recover $212.38.

The petition alleges that water mains have been laid in Lowe's addition and that special taxes have been assessed on the property of the plaintiffs by the Metropolitan Water district, but that the mains for which the assessment is levied are of no value to the property of the plaintiffs.

The McCague Investment company asserts that during the time the case of the Water board was pending in the courts the old water company and the Water board both refused to make needed extensions of water mains in Lowe's addition. The plaintiff asserts that the Water board promised to take over water mains if the city should win the suit, would construct the needed mains. Relying upon the promise of the Water board, the McCague Investment company constructed the mains, according to the petition, and they were put in service.

REV. JOHN F. MILLER GOES TO ST. LOUIS

Rev. John F. Miller, for two years pastor of the First German Presbyterian church, preached his farewell sermon yesterday morning.

Rev. Mr. Miller will leave for St. Louis Thursday, where he accepts the pastorate of the Second German Presbyterian church. He was in charge of this church for seven years before coming to Omaha and the field there will be a familiar one to him. There have been some differences of opinion among members of the congregation of the church here. As a result of this, coupled with the resignation of Rev. Mr. Miller, several members of the church asked for their church letters following the service and signified their intention of permanently withdrawing from the First German Presbyterian church. Heated discussions marked the session. No successor has been selected to take the charge at the church here.

FEDERAL BUREAU IS BROUGHT TO OMAHA

Through a government order effective July 1, the Dubuque office for the federal inspection of locomotive boilers has been consolidated with the Omaha office, and Inspector John P. Kane has been ordered to take charge of the western Iowa district with headquarters in Omaha.

Inspector John Weisha, who has been in charge of the Omaha district, will continue his work in the same territory as before.

The consolidation of the two offices here brings with it authority for a clerk for the Omaha office. E. R. Welsh, connected with the Union Pacific for several years, has been appointed clerk. Inspector Kane has not yet arrived in Omaha, but plans to move his family here at once. Changes in the boundaries of both districts are anticipated by local officials in the department.

POSTAL ORDERS TO BE SENT ABROAD COST LESS

Postmaster General Burleson has ordered that, beginning August 1, the charge for international money orders shall be reduced to meet the general average of the money order service now furnished in the United States.

For several years the money order business to foreign countries has paid more than its proportionate rate to the department, and this will be done away with under the new order. Through the change the fees charged for smaller money orders are in many instances less than half of the former rate.

FAMOUS NAMES WIN FREEDOM FOR ACCUSED

Herbert Spencer, not the famous philosopher, and Steve Brody, not the famous Steve who jumped off the Brooklyn bridge, were responsible for not a little merriment in police court when their names were called.

Spencer is from Flavin, Kan., and he lost $35 when a faithless roommate skipped out while he slept.

Mould admitted taking the money and returned it, while the police court lawyers groaned.
